Second memorial service for my sister, Tori, on December 11.

My dear sister, Tori, died on October 7th. She was a love and a joy to me and Joanne, to her husband Rusty, and to many more. We will miss her. We are uplifted by the enormous joy that she lived, and that she brought into our lives.

You need an internet connection, a microphone and video camera connected to your computer.

We will meet online from 7-8:30 PM on Thursday the 10th of Oct. The first 10 attendees at one of my Google+ conferences will receive $10 off on their next chiropractic appointment.

This is the next book on health that I would like you to read! I recently listened to a one-hour interview with Dr. Gundry. He is a brilliant cardiovascular surgeon who became more brilliant when he realized that what we eat is much more powerful and beneficial than surgery. He now has a center in Palm Springs where he helps patients reverse heart disease, diabetes, arthritis, cancers and neurodegenerative diseases such as Parkinson's disease. My kids are already starting to read this book for my birthday present. Let me know what you think!

Who You Gonna Call When You've Got Health Issues? Ghostbusters?

Few Americans have a proven and valued health mentor, a health guru, a real doctor. And face it, few Americans have enough experience to be their own guide in the frontiers of health and disease.

Most of us focus on health only when we have lost it. Few Americans actively practice health maintenance, and even fewer study health.

When illness does "strike" we are apt to seek symptom relief. Unfortunately, chances are that our healthcare practitioner will be interested in the same thing we are. There will probably be no discussion of the causes of the illness, nor the lifestyle factors that could predictably restore health.

Right now American health is on life support. If we are going to be the change we would like to see in the world, here is what we might do:

- 1) begin gently to study health. You could start reading Dr. Gundry's Diet Evolution,
- 2) start practicing basic health; you know, no dairy, vegetables, walking, forgiveness,
- 3) find yourself a great health mentor; examples would be Mark Hyman, MD, or me.

Who you gonna call now?

Monthly Vitamin Special for November

$5.00 Off Magnesium Glycinate

Most Americans are deficient in magnesium. High quality magnesium is used to relax muscles, lower blood pressure, improve sleep, and treat depression; to name a few. Ready to feel more calm?

Who Would Have Guessed?

As we learn more about ourselves and the universe in which we live, we have relatively recently learned that while the human body is made up of roughly 10 trillion cells, there are roughly 100 trillion one-celled organisms, bacteria and fungi, living in and on us. Ten times as many of their cells as ours.

Knowing this, could and should change one's life. If it doesn't jump out at you, at least, consider what they eat, and who's feeding them.
